

Clark County Amateur Radio Club (CCARC)

Purpose and Goals

The two purposes of the CCARC are:

First: To provide an arena for local area Hams to network and socialize about their enjoyable hobby.

Second: To provide an opportunity for Hams to give back to our community through service to local organizations. Ham Radio has always been and will continue to be a means for hams to step forward and serve, without recompense, their community in emergency and non-emergency situations. The CCARC will aggressively pursue both public service and enjoyable activities in Ham Radio.

The three goals of the CCARC are:

First: The leadership team of Officers and Directors will ensure club members and visitors experience a fun-filled and educational environment at each and every event in which our club sponsors or participates. The club leadership team will ensure each club meeting fulfills this commitment through relevant and well thought-out programs which involve information sharing, training, and fun. We further commit we will provide various opportunities for club members to learn through providing service to our community. We will ensure that we support club member technical and procedural training needs through a strong Elmer program to assist individual members wherever possible. Your elected Officers and Directors, realize this is the members' club and will provide and encourage every opportunity for members to be involved in club operations and activities.

Second: The Officers and Directors will aggressively encourage the growth of the Ham Radio hobby by working closely with various local community groups and individuals to ensure continued growth in both the Ham Radio hobby in general and specifically membership in our club. We will reach out to all age groups with an emphasis on inspiring young people to join us in the Ham Radio community as we clearly wish to perpetuate the hobby, this club, and its efforts well into the future.

Third: The Officers and Directors will support and provide practical training and other educational events to foster growth in Ham Radio and our club. We will work diligently to keep club activities in the forefront of both members and the public eye through multimedia publication to ensure timely awareness of club events. Such events will include Ham Radio licensing classes, Ham Basics Workshops, education and training presented in club meetings, ARRL Field Day activity, and other educational programs throughout the year.
